The City of Casa Grande is strategically located at the intersection of two interstate highways (I-8 and I-10) in an area known as Arizona's Golden Corridor. Casa Grande is a dynamic, involved community, a modern city with rural heritage and old-fashioned values. Its economic base is a mix of retail trade, factory outlet shopping, manufacturing and agriculture. Founded in 1879, Casa Grande was named for the famous Hohokam Indian Ruins 20 miles to the northeast. Midway between Phoenix and Tucson, the City has grown to be the largest community in western Pinal County since its incorporation in 1915 with approx 48,000 residents.

The City of Coolidge today is a prosperous and pleasant City with a population of 12,500. It is the home of the Casa Grande Ruins National Monument which was designated the nation's first archaeological preserve by the federal government in 1892. Approximately 100,000 visitors each year enjoy the rich history preserved in a museum on site.

In the new Pinal County Comprehensive Plan, Coolidge is proposed to be a high-intensity economic activity center which will include clustered offices, business parks, industrial, commercial, tourism/hospitality and residential development. The future north-south freeway corridor, major arterials, commuter-rail route and bus rapid transit route will welcome residents and visitors into Pinal County and the City of Coolidge. The Coolidge Airport would become a Regional Jet Port relieving Phoenix and Tucson Airports.

The emergence of cities like Coolidge in the Sun Corridor provides an outstanding opportunity to build one of America's mega-regions. The City of Coolidge has a unique opportunity to plan and build a sustainable and exciting future in the coming years.

The City of Eloy, incorporated in 1949, historically is an agricultural community located along the growth corridor midway between Phoenix and Tucson. Although it continues to be an agriculturally-based economy, Eloy is strategically located at the crossroads of interstates 8 and 10. Therefore, Eloy has the potential to burst into a robust industrial-based economy.

In 1902, the Southern Pacific Railroad built a switch west of Picacho, which they named Eloy. In 1918, several developers laid out the foundations for a community they called Cotton City, and for agricultural tracts to raise cotton. The location of the Union Pacific Railroad's main line, with double tracking soon to be completed, and the I-10/I-8 junction in the community make Eloy attractive and convenient for companies to transport goods.

Eloy has the charm of a small rural town with amenities that attract visitors from around the world. The City of Eloy's airport is known internationally for its sky-diving business, Skydive Arizona. Skydive Arizona is one of the world's largest skydiving centers and is co-located with Skyventure Arizona, the world's largest and most powerful sky diving simulator.

Eloy is rich in old west and Arizona history as it is home to a territorial school, Toltec School, and a main thoroughfare of the historic Butterfield stage coach route. It is surrounded by Mt. Newman and the Sawtooth mountains. Hot air balloon rides offer beautiful birds eye views of Picacho Peak, at Picacho Peak State Park, the site of Arizona's only Civil War battle.

Eloy is a general law city and Council-Manager form of local government. The City of Eloy has an elected mayor and six council members which appoints a city manager who is chief administrative officer of the city. The City provides a wide range of services to its citizens and businesses which address the public's safety, quality of life and municipal infrastructure.

The city's planning area has grown to approximately 543 square miles, and is proceeding with major infrastructure upgrades, planning activities, downtown revitalization and other economic development projects. Eloy is positioned for all who wish to live and work along the "golden corridor" right in the heart of Arizona.
