City Description

Coolidge (57 sq. miles) is the commercial center of Arizona's cotton industry and was founded in 1925. In 1925, after construction of the Coolidge Dam transformed the flat desert into rich farm and ranch land, R.J. Jones laid out an 80 acre site to found the city. The city's name honors President Calvin Coolidge who dedicated the dam in 1930. The warm dry climate makes it an ideal tourist and retirement center. Hundreds of thousands of visitors annually visit the Casa Grande Ruins National Monuments in Coolidge. The Ruins National Monument preserves an Ancient Sonoran Desert People farming community and "Great House". Created as the nation's first archeological reserve in 1892, the site was declared a National Monument in 1918. Coolidge is in the middle of the sun corridor which is rapidly growing. Population of the community was 11,825 in 2010. Access to Highway I-10 and State Route 87 makes it easy to access the Phoenix and Tucson Metropolitan areas. The elevation in the area is 1,412. Once dependent on agriculture and mining, the community has evolved into a diversified full-service area with agriculture, retail trade, government and senior living employment.
